A visit to the Hay on Wye Literary Festival

Tuesday 29th May 2018

An easy way to experience the magic of the Festival

Organised by Dorn Swaffield

This visit to the Hay-on-Wye Literary Festival is a new venture for the Friends. It gives you the opportunity to visit the Festival by coach and avoid the trouble of driving and parking. You will be dropped off at a point which allows easy accessibility to the site. Please note that there is no charge for entrance to the festival site and you have to buy tickets only for the events you want to see. We will not be doing that for you as we will all have different interests and so we suggest that you buy tickets online, or select the events you wish to attend by calling the Box Office on 01497 822 629. Tickets range from £5 to £40 and there are normally no concessions. If you do not book for a specific event note that there are some free events and workshops, but these might have a limited capacity so please check event listings for details. The festival field has necessary facilities to make your day enjoyable and interesting even if you have not booked for an event and you might find events that you can book on arrival. We are advised that there will not be too much mud on the field as all the venues are just a brief walk apart linked by covered and carpeted boardwalks. Please wear comfortable shoes.

The full programme is available at Easter, and tickets can be booked through the festival website: <https://www.hayfestival.com/Default.aspx>; by post: Box Office, 25 Lion Street, Hay-on-Wye; or by telephone: 01497 822629.
